Boxing Legend The "Brown Bomber" Dies At Age 66

by Eddie Oliphant

Considered by millions as the greatest boxer to ever put on the fighting leather, Joseph Louis Barrow collapsed at his home and died of cardiac arrest April 12, at age 66. Known the world over as Joe Louis or "the Brown Bomber" he held the heavyweight title for 12 years, and turned back 25 straight challengers. Joe had 76 fights, won 73, 59 by knockouts, while losing only three times, twice after trying to come back after retirement. Born on May 14, 1915 on a Georgia cotton plantation, reared in the Ghettos of Detroit, Joe took up amateur boxing at a local gymnasium, winning 47 out of 51 fights, forty-one by knock-outs and won the National AAU title in 1934. Joe turned professional at age 20 after 2 black businessmen, John Roxborough and Julian Black signed him to a professional contract. His most famous fight was on June 22, 1938 in Yankee Stadium in a rematch against the German Max Schmeling. Louis won the fight in 2:33 of the first round. After the victory against Schmeling, Louis was praised as one of America's greatest heroes even after retirement and serving as Official Greeter at Caesar's Palace he maintained world wide respect.

Joe Louis was a symbol of Black Pride and progress for millions of Black people for he came along in an era when there weren't any Black heroes or role models to look up to. He inspired many Black athletes to partake in professional boxing and accredited the Black man as a product to be respected and reckoned with in America.

Growing unrest in Africa

BY LAURA PARKS
U.N. COLUMNIST

In recent weeks there have been growing signs of unrest in Africa. Developments on the continent are causing increasing concern among the leaders of independent Africa. These concerns have their origins in the extroadinarily difficult economic problems facing the new nations.

The magnitude of the problems and the fears which they inspire in government circles is further compounded by the fact and the realization that near term economics prospects are dismal while the long range outlook is said to be poor to fair over the next 10 years.

Poor economic performance over the time creates poiltical dissent and active opposition to the established government. In most African nations the established governments were created by the heroes of the wars for independence from colonial rule. Now they are suddenly under attack from opponents within.

The governments reaction to internal opposition is frequently made harsher by the general belief and fear that the multinational corporations of the former colonial powers are again trying to gain economic, if not political control. Then too, there is the generalized fear of South African ambitions on the rest of Africa.

The present world wide recession has made matters much worse in that African exports have drastically fallen and with it so have the prices of her valued commodities. This has brought several African nations to near bankruptcy.

The general trend may be illustrated by the following few examples: Rising tensions in Ghana between the supporters of former Head of State Flight

Atlanta Killings Focal Point For News Organizations' Media Coverage

Atlanta's Black Children

By Vincent McCraw, Staff Writer
Atlanta Daily World

During the past 20 months Atlanta's tragic case of murdered and missing black children has become the focal point and in some cases top priority for media coverage for news organizations throughout the world.

Many of the media members have made the crisis front page headline stories or top stories in their broadcast. In the print media headlines of the largest point size have proclaimed such sentiments: "Atlanta Held Hostage as Killings Continue," "Blacks Deny Riot Threat in Wake of Teen's Death," and other sensationalized heads.

Furthermore, some have even reported that racial tensions in Atlanta are at its highest level because the prevailing thought seems to suggest that a non-black faction or factions are responsible for these henious crimes. "...the big problem, states one editorial from a midwestern newspaper, is that I do not believe it would have taken this long to find the killer or killers if the victims were white."

Another northern publication implies that this rash of killings targeted at the black community is a "measure being utilized by the city's white community to discredit its black administration."

DIFFERENT VERSIONS

All of these accounts and others have given a number of citizens outside of Atlanta and Georgia a totally different, if not slanted version of the factual occurences in the city

While refuting many of the allegations made by the various medias it will not be refuted that tension does reside among the citizens of the community. However, these tensions are not of racial or violent nature.

In every instance the black and white communities have pulled together in a valiant effort to bring justice the perpetrator(s) of these crimes.

To be sure, anger and disgust are present, but all of this anger, disgust and frustration is focused upon those person(s) who have taken the lives of the city's children and by virtue of these acts threaten the future of the city's remaining youth.

While support from the entire community has been overwhelming, via financial contributions to aid in the investigation and to aide the families of the slain children, other support has also been established by members of both the white and black communities.

For instance, programs addressing themselves to the mental needs of the city's youth, some who have experienced unfortunate mental frustration due to the crisis, have been established throughout the metropolitan area in an attempt to allay the fears harbored by the kids and their parents.

Moreover, city officials and other community leaders have cautioned their constiuents to refrain from suggesting all theses crimes are racially motivated in order to avoid racial,polarization in this most strenuous situation. In one instance a midwestern newspaper columnist stated in a March edition of his paper that neither Reagan nor the government

Secretary Should Walk Thru Harlem

One can never be sure what consideration is foremost in the mind of a President when he makes a political appointment. One thing is certain, a cabinet position is a position of power for whomever is selected as a Secretary of a government department.

The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development will control an estimated budget of $40 billion. Samuel R. Pierce's name was put in as Secretary of HUD after several people turned the job down. At this point only history will help us as to the astuteness of President Reagan's appointment of the highest ranking Black American official in his administration. Americans of African ancestry must hold their breath and hope he is a help rather than a hinderance to Black America.

Secretary Pierce is a park avenue lawyer from New York. It's news that there are any such people populating the race. It is of course, equally a bit note worthy that Secretary Pierce played a part in the Nixon administration as the Treasury Department's general counsel.

Considering, however, it was unlikely he was in any real decision making capacity in that previous republican administration, one could assume he is more than

IN CASE YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Tacoma Public School lunches went up 10¢ April 1 according to Food Service Program director Jeanne Olonfa.

Parents should contact the school principal to find out if their children may be eligible for reduced school lunches.

National Endowment for the Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts may have a portion of the 85 million dollars restored to the President's budget The proposed cuts represeted 50% of its total budget. In local terms, last year Washington State received 2.3 million to fund 42 separate projects. If the cuts remain it will mean a decline in programs for libraries, museums, community colleges, four year public and private institutions of higher learning, elementary and secondary schools and community agencies. Our congressional delegation have voiced their interest and support. Two projects currently funded by NEH or NEA are All My Somedays and the Art Bowl.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Many of us have turned our backs on the commitment we made to the struggle, to the people, to a new society—for the chance to sit behind a desk, move to the suburbs and enjoy all the fruits of the supposed Good Life? ...

Many of the Legal, Social, Political and Economic Rights we enjoy today and accept so naturally were won for us at great personal cost and always in the face of public resistance by our foreparents.

Black people of today have a legacy from these brave and determined revolutionaries in our heritage. We have a responsibility to the young people who will come after us. We must continue to challenge the myths and laws that have kept "niggers" in their place.

Our daughters, as well as our sons must believe they can go as far as their dreams and abilities will take them. Too many of us are willing to delude ourselves into believing that the time for struggle is past—when in fact it's only just begun.

Fun In The Plaza

A group of courageous citizens braved the elements to participate in the neighborhood expo held after the daffodil parade last Saturday. Had mother nature cooperated it would have been great. However the few who stuck it out had fun.

There were games, baked goods, plants, crafts in booths sponsored by different community organizations and neighborhood groups. The best buy of the day was chili beans in a cup for 25¢—and they were good.

The entertainment was lively. It ranged from the steel band sounds of the Carribean Super Stars with some very good western music by the Country Jesters to jazz by Touch of Blue. The Air Force Jazz Ensemble from McChord. It was good to see local folk doing their things. It should be done again in the summer. Coordinators for the event were Becky Davis and Elton Gatewood of the Community Development Department.

James Buckley, a Washington attorney, recently returned to Tacoma and joined the law firm of Herrmann Levenson, Margullis & Finch, after having spent three (3) years as a senior deputy prosecuting attorney with Thurston County. He was assigned to the criminal law section.

Buckley will be writing a weekly article for The Tacoma Facts over the next several months. His articles will cover various areas of the law.

By James C. Buckley, Attorney at Law

"He who gives his freedom away has no cause to complain afterward--know and exercise your legal rights."

Last week we set out the facts of a hypothetical case that can happen to anyone. We also discussed obtaining releases from jail. Let's assume that you were successful in your release attempt and now have been released on bail or on your "personal recognizance".

The next step after your preliminary appearance and the bail hearing is your arraignment. You must be brought before a Superior Court Judge for arraignment not later than 14 days after that appearance in Court which next follows the filing of the information or indictment. The Judge will again advise you of your constitutional rights. A waiver of any of these rights would be foolish since your liberty is at stake. Sure we both know that you did not commit the crime that you have been charged with. However, we are going to have to prove that you did not commit the crime. Notwithstanding the fact that you are presumed innocent.

At your arraignment, your lawyer will enter a not guilty plea on your behalf. A trial date will be set by the Court. This trial date must be within 60 days of your arraignment if you are still incarcerated. It must be within 90 days if you already have been released on bail or "personal recognizance".

Prior to the trial on your case, your lawyer will make a motion to dismiss the charges or indictment. This is called the "OMNIBUS HEARING". At this hearing all motions and other pretrial matters prior to trial will be presented to the Court, i.e. discovery, continuance, stipulations, etc. The Judge will enter a ruling on your motion to dismiss. Generally, the Judge will enter a ruling on all motions directly from the bench. In other words, he will tell you at the omnibus hearing whether or not your motion to dismiss is granted or denied.

Since it will take more space than we have left in this week's article, next week we will tell you whether your motion to dismiss is granted or denied and why.

reputable for escaping unscalded by the scandal of that situation.

Some serious problems have popped up, however, from the Senate confirmation hearings from this "silent" Secretary. In front of the Senate Banking Committee, Secretary Pierce stated that efforts to slash federal spending and temper double-digit inflation must take precedence over housing and urban issues, while trying to emphasize he didn't mean he was turning his back on the poor.

One wonders if he knows where they live! Unless Secretary Pierce is allowing people to put words in his mouth he is confused with his agenda. All the king's horses and all the king's men cannot put humpty dumpty back together again, but they can still crack him some more!

Some Black Americans erroneously assume that the only reason they are selected to service in government is because of their talent based on merit. Make no mistake about it, appointing any Black American in a Republican or Democratic administration is based on the political muscle of the Black American masses.

These are people who make up those high unemployment rates and largely poorly sheltered soul seeking some relief from the system.

Secretary Samuel Pierce, apparently does not have a housing problem with his place on Park Avenue. However, a walk thru Harlem would be mighty healthy for his attitude and public opinion. Some people criticized Mr. Pierce's appointment based on the fact that he has no previous housing experience, undoubtedly then, getting to the ghetto will give the Secretary some education.

Lieutenant Jerry Rawlings and the present Government of President Hilla Limann have deteriorated to the point where influential Ghanians are voicing concern about the survival of democracy. Mr. Rawlings has bitterly denounced the present government for its failure to help the poor.

In Tanzania's recent elections half the incumbent members of Parliament were defeated, primarily for economic reasons but also because of a shortage of consumer goods, Government mismanagement, and corruption together with a lack of efficient transportation and health services.

Re-elected Tanzanian President Dr. Nyerere plans to weed out corruption. In his recent speeches he pinpointed the country's economic troubles as the issue of greatest concern to voters. He stated that those elected must " deal with our economic problems" which show "no signs of decreasing in the near future."

He explained that despite his earlier predictions that the economy would improve during 1980, this has not happened because of drought, the rising cost of oil and other essential imports, and falling prices of Tanzania's export crops.

In Zambia, President Kaunda, fearing a South African backup coup against his 16 year old independent Government, has imposed restrictions on the country. Kaunda's fear of South Africa is well founded, but today in Zambia the real issue is popular dissatisfation with the nations economic performance.

For the consecutive year the corn crop has been poor and by the middle of next year Zambia will have to import 200,000 tons of corn probably from South Africa. Financing the corn imports will be difficult. Because of falling copper prices and problems in selling cobalt, Zambia is already short of foreign exchange. There is a 18 month delay in payments for imports and the amount present owed is over $480 million.

There are also periodic shortages of essential goods such as corn, flour, soap and salt. Long lines form daily for these items and rising prices have caused mass discontent. Today this discontent is primilarily expressed by the Zambia Congress of Trade Unions, which has led several important strikes against the governments ecomic policies.

President Kaunda has suggested that the strikes may have been fomented by agents working for South Africa, but others in Zambia say that the strikes were the result of real long standing grievances of the people and the work force.

Against this background tribal rivalries have become more pronounced in the past year. Also there has been a surge of discontent among the Bemba people. the available evidence points towards increasingly difficult times for independent Africa.

Medical FACTS

Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health even as thy soul prospereth.

Even though cancer is a far second to cardiovascular disease (heart attacks and strokes) as a cause of death in this country, it is by far the most feared of all diseases. Much of this fear comes from the images of long lingering deaths associated with cancer, also the feeling of helplessness as to how to avoid cancer. Daily we read in our newspapers, television, etc. reports suggesting that almost everything around us has the potential to cause cancer. So what happens? Many people give up when it comes to thinking about cancer prevention programs. The fact of the matter is that there are effective methods of prevention or early detection for all of the five leading kinds of cancer (lung, colon-rectal, breast, prostrate and uterine).

Since traditionally the month of April has been the American Cancer Society's banner month for cancer detection and screening, we will here begin a discussion of the five leading kinds of cancer as well as current detection programs.

What is Cancer? Cancer is a large group of diseases in which there is an uncontrolled growth and spread of abnormal cells. If this spread is not controlled, it results in the death of the individual. We do know that many cancers can be cured if they are detected in the early stages and treated. Several methods of treatment now exist, they include surgery, x-rays, chemicals and hormone therapy.

Since the turn of the century, there has been progress made against cancers, due primarily to programs aimed at early detection. For example in 1900 few cancer patients had any hope for long-term survival. In 1930, less than one out of five were alive at least 5 years after treatment. In 1950 it was one in four. Today it is more like one in three.

No age, sex, or race is spared from cancer. It kills more children in the age group 3-14 than any other disease. It can now be said that cancer will affect one in four of all Americans now living. This translates to over 60 million Americans and some 6.5 million black Americans. In 1979 it was projected that about 73,000 Blacks would be found to have cancer with 44,000 expected deaths. Of every six deaths in Blacks in the U.S., one is from cancer. Further, a study of cancer rates over the last 25 years show that the cancer incidence rate for Blacks is higher than for Whites. Differences also exist in terms of cancer deaths. Most of the differences in Black and White cancer rates have been related to environmental and social factors rather than to in-born characteristics.

In the next issue wer shall discuss colon and rectal cancer. (Lung cancer was discussed by an earlier Facts issue).

of Georgia had provided any assistance.

"...There is a lot of rhetoric that the U.S. is discussing some funds, but none has, of this date, been forwarded," the article said. On March 5 the Federal government allocated $979,000 the city to provide after school care for the children in those areas where mosts of the crimes occurred. Too, it will provide counseling for parents and housing of deprived youth. Moreover, on March 11 Georgia Governor Busbee signed a contract allocating over $200,000 to the city to cover soaring overtime costs.

Finally, it would be remiss to say that all of the members of the media have misconstrued the crisis in Atlanta, for this is not the case. A number of mediums have taken extreme caution in efforts not to practice overt sensationalism; on the other hand, however, some news agencies have not been totally accurate in reporting the affairs surrounding the crimes, causing persons outside of the city to construct different and sometimes horrifying protraits of the situation.

In the future it is hoped that the continued coverage of these activities, while not covering up, should be more careful and attempt to accurately relay the accounts in the city.

Relay to readers that Atlanta has pulled together and has become a family of one in an all-out charge to not only apprehend the responsible person(s) but also in efforts to strengthen as well as further the development and character of the city's youth.

You Will Defeat Stress: Part III

By Dr. C.W. Faulkner

Although most people recognize the characteristics of stress or know when they are under stress, they are often unable to locate the causes. The interesting thing is that the causes of stress are so obvious and blend in so well with one's daily activities that they are frequently unrecognizable. The causes of stress are so much a part of our daily lives that one is often unable to function without stress.

This is the paradox: (1) Being beset by an uncomfortable and destructive condition that is so much a part of us, that is so common that our lives would be too distorted and confusing without it. Stress is a normal concomitant of one's efforts to be successful, and of his own relative self-image, be it positive or negative. Stress is a part of living and does not become a problem until it interferes with one's daily activities.

In my last column, I provided you with seven steps that you should use in your efforts to gain your victory over stress. Here are six more very effective ways of dealing with stress:

Do not dwell on your shortcomings or weaknesses. Your weaknesses play only a minor part in your life. You have far more success in your life than failures. Dwell on your successes and strengths.

Change your goals when necessary. Do not allow unreachable goals to hinder your advancement. Change them. Bring your goals down to size; to where you can reach them.

Break the monotony of your life. Take a break from your job, drive home by a different route, shop at a different store for a change, find new friends and associates, enjoy an evening out on the town. Go to a movie even if you have to do it alone.

Deal with one problem at a time. Do not allow the burden of problems to weigh you down all at once. Take them one at a time. Set aside a two-hour period each month to solve problems. Deal with the wealth of your problems only at this time. Enjoy your life the rest of the time.

Learn to relax. Some people have been tense for so long that they feel abnormal without having something to worry about. Worry is itself a heavy burden that exacts a heavy price in emotional energy. Relaxation is a wonderful feeling. Relax by inhaling deeply, filling the lungs completely with air. Hold your breath as you slowly count to five. Then, exhale slowly. Repeat this exercise five times. Next, tighten the muscles in your legs. Hold the tightness for five seconds, then, relax them quickly. Next, tighten your stomach muscles. Hold the tightness for five seconds, then release them quickly. Do the same with your arms and shoulders, and with your neck muscles. Repeat these exercises often. Relax!

Be healthy. A healthy body is far more capable of enduring the rigors of this stressful society than an unhealthy one. So, take care of yourself. Take vitamins. Don't eat junk foods. Eat the proper foods. Get some mild but regular exercise. Get up early in the morning. Don't sleep your life away.

Who's Who

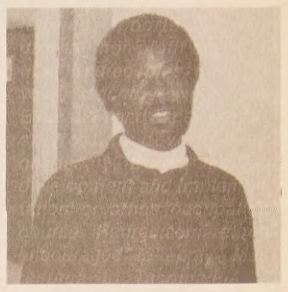
By Jean Watley



Edwin Gilven

Who is this handsome young fellow sitting in a classroom looking like a student. He can't be the student he's sitting behind the teacher's desk.

The class appear to be under control, the students seem to enjoy his presence.

His name, Edwin Gilven many call him Ed.

Ed is presently working at McIlvaigh Junior High School. He says he enjoys the McIlvaigh atmosphere and love the students there.

He spends a great deal of his time after school with the students in extra-curricular activities. His belief is that sports and club activities are another teaching tool. "It's a great motivator," says Ed.

During his summers, he goes to the mountains with the U.S. Forest Service working as a Camp Counselor for the Youth Conservation Corp.

He sees his endeavors as an important investment into tomorrow's leaders.

Edwin is a graduate of Lincoln High School in Tacoma. He attended Olympic Community College for two years and graduated from Pacific Lutheran University with a B.A. in Sociology.

We commend you, Ed, on your outstanding contributions to the youth in Tacoma. You are a fine example of what dedication should be.

Search the Scriptures

Evangelist J. Allen Elkanada

Devotional reading Gen. 1:26-28... Background Scripture Psalm 34:8.

Last week we devoted our attention to secular matters. This we did because it pleases the Lord when we deal with the whole man—Spirit, soul and body—for who dares to be joyful if he's hungry? Last week's column, therefore, addresses itself to the present economic situation facing the people—ordered by the people at the top. We did not forget to "SEARCH THE SCRIPTURES", however, so let us deal with some of what we've found.

It seems fitting to me to tie in this week's study with last week's article as it might be rather interesting to note that we too, may have fallen short in our Christian attitude towards our creator and thus help to create the present hardship; as there may exist some good reasons why we do not have many of the things we should.

First let us look at what was given to us by God—our Creator—that we do not have —and why ... "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them" (man) "have DOMINION over the fish of the sea, and over the fowls of the air, and over the cattle, and OVER ALL THE EARTH, and over every creeping things that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in His OWN image; male and female created He them. And God blessed them, and God said unto them: Be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth and SUBDUE it" (Gen. 1:26-28). Interesting finding ... isn't it? ...Or, did we all know that before this search began? I trust most of us did; since it is really a well known story—though shamefully misunderstood.

We should take a moment, however, to meditate on what we have just read; for we may need to ask ourselves some questions—and what better time to question one's self than in humble meditation? A question that quickly comes to mind here is: how do we explain being in the image and likeness of a Holy, righteous God? What do we call image? We should have no hardship in determining "LIKENESS" for what we're really saying is "the same" or "Close correspondence in appearance". Now, what are we saying? We are attesting to the fact that God in His Holy word declared that He has made us in His "Image" and Likeness and has given us (mankind) dominion over His works. Then, do I look like God? One might be tempted to ask. The answer is emphatically no. For no one is able to describe or explain what God looks like—for no man has ever seen God. But the words "Image" and "likeness" here represents "THOUGHTS". Man was made to think righteously and therefore, act according to his thoughts; for only in righteousness can we deal (commune) with a God Who is righteous. So unless, and until our thoughts are elevated we cannot be where we ought to be —where we were in the beginning—in the image and likeness of our Creator, God.

The prophet Isaiah, through Holy inspiration recognizes this and wrote for us: "FOR MY THOUGHTS ARE NOT YOUR THOUGHTS, NEITHER ARE YOUR WAYS MY WAYS, SAITH THE LORD (Isaiah 55:8). Now this passage of Scripture simply confirms the above statement. A man's ways are directly in accordance with his thoughts. Therefore, if our thoughts are poor, our action is bound to be poor; and we in turn, shall be poor. Make some sense, doesn't it ...? Of course ... it must ... it's Scriptural; and at the outset of this study we agreed that the Scriptures was, and is God's Words and that God's Words are true—and we therefore, accepth them as unchangeable facts!

Well, to my dismay I've noticed we've run out of space. We shall pick up right where we left off when we return next week. Until then, will you continue to search ...? I shall, under the Lord's direction! May He continue to purge your hearts in this wise...

... Your humble servant ...

Dr. George D. McKinney

Sports FACTS

By Eddie Oliphant

The Tacoma Boys Club Boxing Team was very impressive last weekend competing in the Junior and Senior Northwest Meet of Champions. Coach Tom Mustin took a stable of 18 warriors to battle and brought home 13 victories, two runner-ups, and two Outstanding Boxer Awards. Boxers Gaylen Brooks and Ande Knapp won Outstanding Boxer Awards fighting in the 10–11 and 12–13 age group respectively. Both fighters fought in the 75 pounder weight division.

The following fighters were also victorious at the Meet of Champions: In the 10–11 age group, 65 lbs. Emmit Linton, 70 lbs. Grey Hughes, 80 lbs. Daniel Lee, and 85 lbs. Tioga Waller won as they dominated their age group. In the 12–13 age group, 85 lbs. Maurice Linton and 90 lbs. Monte Lee won their bouts. Vincent Jones won the 14–15 age group Light-Heavy-weight match weighing 178 lbs. His stablemates Dwane Jamison, Jim Diamond, Thomas Dawkins and Danny Brown won bouts in the Senior boxers bracket.

The Boys Club will be fighting at a Smoker in Yelm, Washington April 25, at 8:00 p.m. Tick ts are $5.00 for admission.

The Tacoma Tiger held its annual "Meet The Players Nite" this past Monday evening at the Huntsman Inn. In attendance were nearly two hundred Tiger booster and baseball fans enjoying a no-host bar as team manager Ed Nottle gave the audience a synopsis of what is expected of his team this year. Nottle and the majority of his players expressed a sense of gratefulness and pride to be playing in Tacoma, acknowledging that this year's team has finer facilities and better management. Ed Nottle feels he has a team bolstering with major league ability and said he has every player he wanted. He guaranteed each player were productive people who want to win lots of ball games this year.

Among Nottle's slew of major league talent were former Seattle Mariner pitcher Dave Havelo, and outfielders Mike Davis, Derek Bryant, and Kelvin Moore. Havelo feels he can take a car load of Tigers to Seattle and beat the Mariners three games out of four. Derek Bryant has played four years in the Class Triple A League having a brief stint (two weeks in 1978 and the entire '79 season) in the majors with the Oakland A's. Bryant was a closed second for last year's triple A batting title hitting .342 for the year. The University of Kentucky grad feels he'll be in the big time very soon. Outfielder Mike Davis has been in the minors 2½ years with ¾ of a season spent with the A's. Davis came right out of high school in San Diego to play pro ball and he feels with his prowess alone with former Jackson Stater Kelvin Moore and Derek Bryant (all batting over .300) the Tigers will be big winners this season. The entire Tiger squad generated enough energy in their vows and supports for the coming season until they could have lift-off the Space Shuttle "Columbia." It will be very interesting to see how they fare this year, so sports fans go out and support the Tacoma Tigers.
